

THE WOKINGHAM SOCIETY

Government publication ‘Planning for the Future’

Letter to Society members:

You will probably have heard and seen quite a lot in the media about the Government’s proposals for reforming the planning system in England. Its White Paper, entitled ‘Planning for the Future’, was published on 6 August and responses to it are invited up to a deadline of 29 October 2020. The publication can be found via <https://www.gov.uk/government/consultations/planning-for-the-future>

This web page also provides a link to the online response form, or an email address for those who want to submit their views in written form.

Your Committee will be considering the White Paper and working towards a set of replies in the next eight weeks or so and will share a draft response with you in order that you can comment on it and/or use it to assist your own submission. Meanwhile do feel free to share your initial comments with us as we work towards a draft response.

With best wishes

Peter Must
